WORKING OR STUDYING IN THE UK - GETTING STARTED

(EXCERPTS FROM ‘HOW 2 COME TO THE UK’ BOOK written by Charles Kelly & Cynthia Barker, Immigration Advisers)

If your plan is to work or study, it may be useful to find out how your qualifications compare with the UK equivalent and have your English language skills assessed by an internationally recognised organisation.

NARIC - National Recognition Information Centre

AT A GLANCE:

- People applying for jobs or study courses are often asked for a NARIC
- You may also require an IELTS English Language test
- Education UK and UCAS websites are a place for students to start
- The UK Government Job Centre website is a place to look for jobs
- The ‘Work Permits (UK)’ website is a good general site for workers

GENERAL

UK NARIC is the national agency under contract to the UK Government Department for Education and Skills. It is the official source of information and advice on the comparability of international qualifications - from over 180 countries worldwide - with those in the UK.

NARIC provides information on the comparability of international and national qualifications in regard to education and training, professional registration and international employment. The information from NARIC about education systems and technical or vocational qualifications is recognised by higher education institutions, professional bodies and commercial organisations.

NARIC Assessment

Although not a compulsory requirement, overseas applicants applying for UK jobs, work permits or student places are often asked for a NARIC Assessment to compare their overseas qualifications with the UK equivalent.
